MILL OVERVIEW

Domtar's integrated pulp and paper mill in Hawesville, Kentucky, produces fine specialty paper. The mill opened in 1967 and became part of Domtar 40 years later. A distinctive focus for the mill is hardwood market pulp, but you'll see more than wood on the mill's property. Nearly one third of the mill's 2,000 acres is leased to farmers growing corn, hay and wheat.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONTRIBUTIONS

- The Hawesville Mill's mile-long chip conveyor from the Ohio River to the facility helps eliminate the need for over a half million miles of truck traffic each year, reducing both noise and greenhouse gas emissions.

COMMUNITY INVESTMENT

- The Hawesville Mill's support of STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) education goes back to 2007, when the facility partnered with the local technical college to allow local youth the opportunity to further their education and gain valuable life skills.
